So we would be very similar to these equations to check: $$ Eqalign {dot uy_1 + dot vy_2 & = 0 cr. U dot y_1 + dot v dot y_2 & = f (t). CR} $$ this is a system of two equations in the two unknowns $ ds dot u $ and $ ds dot v $, so we can solve as usual to get $ ds u = g (t) $ and $ DT V = H (T) $. Now we are committed to a desired thought. In other cases we can experience the variation of the parameters as we did in the first case. $ Square $ Example 17.7.3 The differential equation $ DDOT Y -2 DOT Y + Y = E ^ T / T ^ $ 2 is not the enthusiasm module to the indeterminate coefficient method. The solution to homogeneous equation is $ ae ^ {2T} + Be ^ {3T} $, so the simultaneous equations to be solved are $$ qalign {dot ^ {2T} + dot ve ^ {3T } & = 0 cr 2 ^ ^ {2t} +3 dot ve ^ {3t} & = sino t. cr} $$ If we multiply the first equation of 2 and subtract it from the second equation we get $$ Eqalign {dot ve ^ {3t} & = sin t cr \ t COS T) and ^ {- 3T}, Cr} $$ using integration for parts. Since before $ aot = 0 $, we can always divide with $ to $ to make the coefficient of $ ddT Y $ equal to 1. We know that the differential equation $ DDOT Y + B DOT Y + CY = 0 $ It has a general solution $ DS AY_1 + BY_2 $. If $ ds uy_1 + dot vy_2 = 0 $ so also $ ds ddot uy_1 + dot u dot y_1 + ddot vy_2 + dot v dot y_2 = 0 $, taking derivatives â €
